A family tradition

The Darbo family began making preserves, syrups and fine liquors from various types of fruit back in 1879. Produced in a small 'fruit steamery' in the former Austrian town of Görz, these multi-award winning delicacies bear testimony to the fact that the Darbo name has been synonymous with the careful and loving processing of fruit since its early days. This philosophy has resulted in the growth of a company that is renowned and highly reputed both locally and internationally.

However, as the First World War broke out in Europe, the proudly run fruit steamery suffered significant damage and many years of hard work were destroyed. In the end, the family had no choice but to leave Görz and settle in the Tyrolean town of Stans. Despite these bitter setbacks, the family quickly rebuilt the company and continued their focus on making fine preserves and bottling honey.

The company was helped on its way by a slight increase in tourism in Tyrol back in the 1920s. This gave visitors from near and far the chance to enjoy Darbo's delicacies for themselves. Encouraged by increasing demand, the family decided to build a new plant in the 1950s, and the number of private households consuming Darbo products grew considerably. Gradually, Darbo was able to increase its market share in both the food retail and catering sectors, expand its product range and become the market leader in Austria for preserves and honey – thanks in no small measure to the loyalty of its customers.

The success seen in Austria was confirmation that the company was on the right path, which led Darbo to begin looking beyond national borders. It soon became clear, however, that operations at the current location lacked the capacity to supply new markets. Following intensive planning, another plant was opened in Stans in 1993. The company became increasingly successful as retailers abroad began to sell Darbo's fine preserves, honeys and syrups. In the mid-1990s, the company developed the idea of producing fruit preserves for dairies, bakeries and confectioners and, as a result, Darbo's fine fruits found their way into jam doughnuts and fruit yoghurt.

In 2009, after decades of running the company, Klaus Darbo Sr. handed the reins to his son Martin, who went on to run the company in the fifth generation together with his uncle Adolf. Since 2024, Klaus Darbo has been managing the company and has taken over as Chairman of the Management Board. The Management Board now consists of him and his brother Martin Darbo.

Darbo is now a well-known medium-sized family firm that operates at four sites in Tyrol and produces high-quality products for restaurants and hotels as well as for the foodservice and food processing industries.

The EMAS-registered company has a quality management and environment in place and has been IFS Food, ISO 9001:2015 and ISO 14001:2015-certified for many years.

Fruit delicacies from Darbo

Only the finest fruits

Production of our fine fruit creations starts in the place where the best fruits grow. Regardless of whether the fruit is picked in the countryside or harvested in the fields, it is at this point that we decide which fruits are good enough for Darbo's products. The choice of which type of fruit to grow, the conditions in which they are cultivated and tended, and their harvesting when perfectly ripe, are all of critical importance. This explains why Darbo insists on extra-soft and full-flavoured apricots, or wild cranberries and bilberries, for example. Decades of experience and trusting relationships with suppliers puts us in an advantageous position for purchasing high-quality fruits. This is how we can be sure that our range of exquisite fruit creations originates from the best fruit-growing regions in the world.

Preparation of our All Natural preserves

After harvesting, the fruit is cleaned, cored and hulled, and any stems and leaves are removed along with any stones. The fruit is deep-frozen and kept in 'cold hibernation', so that there is always a sufficient quantity of apricots, strawberries and raspberries available outside the harvesting period. The Darbo All Natural preserves are prepared using a traditional process that we have used for several decades. While the fruit is heated carefully, granulated sugar and pectin are added and the mixture stirred gently until the optimum fruit and sugar balance is obtained. Concentrated lemon juice is added to round off the flavour. This gentle preparation method ensures the preservation of the fruit's natural aroma. Carefully bottled and lovingly packed, Darbo's fine All Natural preserves enhance breakfast buffets everywhere.

A wonderful range of products

In addition to its All Natural preserves, Darbo offers a wide assortment of products for catering establishments and hotels. Our attractive display stands will make your breakfast buffet an attractive and sophisticated culinary experience for your guests. The following pages will give you an overview of our range, and provide you with plenty of valuable ideas for enhancing your breakfast buffet.
